

Additional unfinished works by Lucas SITHOLE discovered at Kwa-Thema in 2005

In 2005, Johannes Buti Sithole, the eldest son of Lucas T. Sithole, who lives in the family house at Kwa-Thema, found 6 hitherto unknown works buried under the rubble in the garden. One was a broken bronze of a Mother and Child, the others were 5 heads, of which three were in wood, two in sand stone, all unfinished or reworked, mostly unsigned. The Everard Read Gallery, Johannesburg, was authorised by the copyright holders, The Haenggi Foundation Inc., to sell the one bronze recorded under LS7003.3, properly repaired, but not the others being part of the Estate and intended for a museum.

The unfinished works were returned to Johannes Buti Sithole in 2006, but it is not known what happened to them subsequently.

Images of the unfinished works as at 2006

The bronze can be seen on <http://www.sithole.com/SITHOLE-LS7003.htm#LS7003.3>